

CANNING MADE PLEASANT JOB BY ELECTRICITY

New Cold Pack Method Is Simple and Yields Excellent Results.

It's canning time in every real home kitchen. A little foresight now, and the housewife who captures summer flavors into shining glass jars will have good reason to congratulate herself during the long winter months to come. Her well-stocked cupboard will obligingly yield fresh vegetables ready cooked for the winter table, jams and marmalades that make breakfast toast a delicious treat on cold mornings, soup-makings, sauces, and relishes. Canning, which would otherwise be tedious labor, can be done in cool comfort the electrical way.

Here are some suggestions for electric cold-pack canning:

Vegetables should be as fresh as possible. Can the same day they are purchased or picked.

Have ready large pan or holder to take the packed cans when they are ready for sterilizing in the electric oven; large pan of boiling water for blanching; a large pan of cold water for cold dip, and a tea kettle of boiling water for filling jars when packed with vegetables. Test jars, rubbers and tops. Sterilize by boiling twenty minutes.

Grade fruit and vegetables according to size and ripeness.

Prepare fruits and vegetables; string beans, shell peas, peel tomatos, stone peaches and cherries, etc. Remove all but one inch of the tops of carrots, beets, etc.

Blanch such fruits and vegetables as tomatoes, beets, carrots, corn, beans, peaches, and pears in boiling water. Blanch green vegetables like spinach in steam, using the colander within a tightly covered receptacle.

Cold dip. Immerse fruits and vegetables in cold water and remove immediately.

Have hot jars ready. Let them stand in hot water. Fill jars with blanched fruit or vegetables, leaving 1/2 inch at top of jar. Pack jars carefully but firmly.

Add syrup to fruit. Add boiling water and salt to vegetables. Both fruit and vegetables should be entirely covered with liquid.

Adjust tops, rubbers—seal just partially so that the steam may escape.

In canning use the electric range oven.

The bothersome hot water bath used in connection with other fuels on open burners is unnecessary if one cans in an electric oven. The temperature of the oven should be maintained between 212 and 225 degrees by the aid of the oven adjuster.

When the liquid boils, begin to count the necessary time. Refer to the cookbook furnished by the manufacturer of your electric range for a timetable.

Remove from oven, place on folded cloth, seal very tightly, and turn upside down.

The Magic of the Modern Home

JUST the moment a house is wired for Electricity, just that moment a whole new vista opens before the occupants of that home—showing the way to greater comfort, greater convenience and greater enjoyment.

All seasons, all days, all hours, during illness as well as health, Electricity, the master servant, is ever at hand ready to perform some service to lighten the cares and increase the joys of life.

The cleaning of the home, the washing of clothes and dishes, the cooling and heating of the home, the cooking, the lighting—these are but a FEW of the innumerable tasks "electrical servants" perform perfectly, quickly and economically.

ELECTRIC RANGE PRIME FACTOR IN REDUCING BILLS

Flat-Bottomed Utensils Are Means of Saving Heat in Operation.

Familiarity with the electric range will reveal many ways of economizing current. For instance, the right utensils make for a definite reduction of the monthly bill.

To derive full benefit from the electric heat, flat-bottom utensils which just cover the entire burner are essential. By measuring the burners on your electric range you can find out whether they are ten, eight, six-and-a-half, or four-and-a-half inch size. Then the practical thing to do in order to get full benefit from the heat is to match utensils to the burners, that is, use pots and pans identical in width to the width of the burners.

In addition to being the same size, the ideal utensil should be perfectly flat-bottomed; for the better the fit of the pot or pan to the electric plate, the quicker it is heated. Make it a practice never to use hollowed-out, corrugated, or round-bottom vessels. Air, you know, is a poor conductor of heat and if a utensil is curved or uneven on the bottom, the resulting air spaces offer just that much resistance to quick, thorough heating.

You may be assured of having the necessary flat bottom if you insist upon cast iron or cast aluminum vessels. By the process of casting, the workman can achieve exact, flat surfaces. With spun or stamped utensils this is not the case and therefore they are not suitable for the electric range. The superiority of cast utensils over either spun or stamped kitchenware may seem a slight one to the run of housekeepers, but to the modern woman who cooks by wire, "casting" means a real saving on electric current.

Cast aluminum has still another advantage: Heat passes through aluminum twice as fast as through iron or steel. It will store up more heat and retain it longer than any other metal. Taking advantage of these physical properties of aluminum, kettles of it are made with patent lock covers which fit perfectly and retain the steam for economical cooking. Another economy is in the use of sectional utensils in cast aluminum. These are semi-circular cooking vessels, two and three of which may be placed on one burner at a time and locked together. Frequently one may thus cook, for example, potatoes, peas, and apple sauce for the fuel-cost of cooking any one of these articles in the single kettle style.

Regard for just such simple matters as these spells economy in cookery for the intelligent housewife.

RECEIVERSHIP FOR GERMANY FRANCE'S HOPE

American May Administer Republic's Finances Under Plan.

By International News Service.
PARIS, Aug. 28.—A receivership for Germany, along lines suggested by Sir John Bradbury, British representative on the interallied reparations commission, was considered by the French today. If the plan is approved, an American may be proposed for receiver.

It was understood that Sir John Bradbury and M. Mauciere were given assurances on their recent trip of investigation to Berlin that Wilhelmstrasse would accept a receivership upon certain conditions, one of which was that the receiver should be an impartial citizen.

It is reported that Chancellor Wirth suggested Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank in New York City, or some other American banker as receiver. Mr. Vanderlip is in England at present.

Members of the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission today discussed informally the new proposals that Germany has made as the conditions for a moratorium. It is expected that the commission will not reach a definite decision upon the moratorium before Wednesday.

FIRELESS COOKER USED IN COLD PACK CANNING

The electric fireless cooker is excellent for cold-pack canning. The procedure is as follows: After the fruits or vegetables have been blanched and packed according to the cold-pack method, place jars in cooker and surround with water about one-fourth way up. Then clamp down the cover and turn current on high.

MIAMI ROADWAY HAS FINE LIGHTING UNITS

The much traveled causeway joining Miami with its famous playground at Miami beach presented a peculiar lighting problem because of its unusually congested traffic. A recent tabulation of automobiles using the thoroughfare showed an average of more than a thousand cars an hour.

The effective lighting units that finally made the roadway as safe at night as in the daytime were spaced at 400-foot intervals and equipped with 150-candlepower lamps.

Save Vacation Money.

It costs anywhere from $100 to $250 for an ordinary two weeks' family vacation at a summer hotel or resort. The same money expended for electric time-saving appliances in the home will extend the summer vacation over the whole year.

GRAND JURORS BEGIN HERRIN RIOTS INQUIRY

Massacre Which Cost Twenty-two Lives to Result in Indictments.

By HARRY C. READ
International News Service.
MARION, Ill., Aug. 28.—"Bloody Williamson" county and the State of Illinois started today the machinery of the law to bring to justice those responsible for the Herrin "massacre"—the killing of twenty-two men during a coal strike riot.

In the little court house this morning a special grand jury gathered to deliberate upon the evidence secured by Attorney General Edward J. Brundage, in charge of the investigation, and assistant United States Attorney, Charles Kauff, retained by the attorney general to prosecute any case in which indictments are secured.

Attorney General Brundage announced before the jury convened that he would give the jury a complete background of the whole story before any direct witnesses to the wholesale slaying are called.

Brundage arrived yesterday with Attorney Middlekauff and Chief Investigator John G. Glaser of the Chicago office. They were met at Carbondale by State Attorney De los Duty of Williamson county and went at once to the strip mines six miles east of Herrin where the massacre occurred.

A number of stalwart men met the party, evidently to guard the attorney general in view of the recent letters warning Brundage to "stay out of Williamson county if he knew what was good for him."

Brundage declined to forecast how many indictments might be returned by the jury but current opinion among business men in Marion has it that upwards of 200 names will be involved.
